Referencing

- Referencing (also called citing) simply means that whenever you use a quote from another author's work or use their ideas in your own work, you should acknowledge that you have done so.
- Why?
  - To show readers where your information came from
  - To allow the reader to identify and check your sources
  - To show how much research you have done
  - To strengthen your academic argument
  - To avoid plagiarism
  - To get good marks on your assignments.

Introduction to Academic Referencing platforms (Budditha Hettige 2025)

The Harvard Referencing

- This is the most common referencing system in use internationally.
- Harvard has the advantages of flexibility, simplicity, clarity and ease of use, both for the author and the reader.
- There are two stages to referencing in the Harvard system:
  1. Citation or in-text reference to the source in your document
  2. ~~Reference list or Bibliography~~ at the end of your document with full details of the sources.

Citation-Harvard Referencing

- Citation or in-text referencing

- You only need to include the author's family name and the year of publication of the

According to Barnes (2018), learning languages is a substantial task for many students.

Or

Learning languages is a substantial task for many students.(Barnes 2018).

Citation-Harvard Referencing

- If there is no author's name:
- When there is no author, but the work was published by an organization such as a company, university, or government, you should use the name of the organization.
- If there is no author or organization you can use the title instead.

"The term 'Cleverness' can also be used to describe the rules that govern the ability of a group." (Wikipedia, n.d.).

- If there is no date:
- If there is no date on the source use n.d. (not dated).

Citation-Harvard Referencing

- If there is more than one author:
- If there is more than one author you should give the names of each author as they are shown in the original text.
- If there are more authors you should use the first author in the original text followed by 'et al'. (an abbreviation of the Latin term for 'and others').

	In-text citation
1 author	(Smith, 2014)
2 authors	(Smith and Jones, 2014)
3 authors	(Smith, Jones and Davies, 2014)
4+ authors	(Smith et al. , 2014)

Citation-Harvard Referencing

- Multiple sources with the same author and date
- If you cite multiple sources by the same author which were published in the same year, it's important to distinguish between them in your citations.
- To do this, insert an 'a' after the year in the first one you reference, a 'b' in the second, and so on:

The results of the first study (Woodhouse, 2018a) were inconclusive, but a follow up study (Woodhouse, 2018b) achieved a clearer outcome.

Creating a Harvard Reference list

- A bibliography or reference list appears at the end of your text.
- It lists all your sources in alphabetical order by the author's last name, giving complete information so that the reader can look them up if necessary.
- The reference entry starts with the author's last name followed by initial(s). Only the first word of the title is capitalised (as well as any proper nouns).

Journal articles

Print journal	Online-only journal with DOI	Online-only journal with no DOI
Format	Author surname, initial. (Year) 'Article title', Journal Name , Volume(Issue), pp. page range.
Example	Thagard, P. (1990) 'Philosophy and machine learning', Canadian Journal of Philosophy , 20(2), pp. 261–276.

Notes	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Reference list entries for pages without a clearly identified author can begin with the name of the relevant site or organisation instead.</li></ul>

Reference-Harvard Referencing

- Sources with multiple authors in the reference list
- As with in-text citations, up to three authors should be listed; when there are four or more, list only the first author followed by 'et al.':

Number of authors	Reference example
1 author	Davis, V. (2019) ...
2 authors	Davis, V. and Barrett, M. (2019) ...
3 authors	Davis, V., Barrett, M. and McLachlan, F. (2019) ...
4+ authors	Davis, V. et al. (2019) ...

IEEE Referencing

- The IEEE style is a numeric style, where citations are numbered [1] in the order of appearance.

This document shows how to use different citation using Zotero [1]. There are few document taken from Budditha Hettige's personal blog [2]. First Sinhala chatbot [3] and MaSMT [4] are the selected documents.

Is Referencing Easy?

- Unclear about various citing styles
- Collect all the relevant information
- Time

Example:

There are 200 references in your document now you need to remove 10th reference.

Reference Manag

What is a Reference Manager?

- A reference manager supports researchers in performing three basic research steps: searching, storing, and writing
- Functionalities
  - Import citations from bibliographic databases and websites
  - Gather metadata from PDF files
  - Allow organization of citations within the reference manager database
  - Allow annotation of citations
  - Allow sharing of the reference manager database or portions thereof with colleagues
  - Allow data interchange with other reference manager products through standard metadata formats (e.g. RIS, BibTeX)
  - Produce formatted citations in a variety of styles
  - Work with word processing software to facilitate in-text citation

Zotero

- Zotero is a free and open source reference manager that offers flexibility due to the fact it can cite in MS Word, Libre Office, and Google Docs.
- Zotero is a good general reference manager that offers a range of features for collecting, organising, and citing.
- Key points:
  - Free and open source so you can use beyond your time at the university
  - Has a browser extension for collecting references from web pages or web pages themselves
  - Can cite in MS Word, Google Docs, and Libre Office
  - Doesn't have built-in PDF annotation
  - Web browser integration and Online syncing

Why Zotero?

- Is a research tool for managing online references.
- Is a centralized location for gathering and storing references.
- Is useful for all who uses the Internet for research and needs a simple way to organize references.
- Is a free and open source product.
- Works on Windows, Mac, and Linux platforms and is compatible with Firefox.

Introduction to Academic Referencing platforms (Budditha Hettige 2025)

Install Zotero

- Download and install Zotero from www.zotero.org
- Install Zotero Connection for web browsers
- Create Zotero account and Online syncing
- Add a plugin for word or Open Office
- Add plugin for Advanced PDF management (ZotFile)
- Install Zotero stand alone (if required)

Activity 1:

1. Download Zotero from <https://www.zotero.org/> and install into your desktop
2. Install Chrome/Firefox Connector
3. Install MS Word Add-ons

Register and Enable Online Syncing

- Register for a free account
- Registering a user account allows you to sync your library, participate in groups, or post to the support forums.
- Remember username and password
- Add username and password under the settings

Sync with Zotero Cloud

- Go to - Preferences then click Sync (1) then enter username and password (2) and click “Set up Syncing” (3)

Zotero Preferences

- Many of Zotero's features can be customized via the Zotero preferences window. Open the preferences by clicking “Edit → Preferences” You can also press Ctrl/Cmd -,.

- The Preference window is divided into the following panes:
- General: settings, and other general features.
- Sync: Set up data and file syncing.
- Search: Manage PDF fulltext indexing and see relevant statistics.
- Export: Set default settings for generating bibliographies and citations.
- Cite: Add, remove, edit, and preview citation styles and install word processor plugins.
- Advanced: Zotero data location, library lookup, and other advanced settings.

Layered Architecture of the Zotero

Adding Items Into Your Library

- if you are reading a journal article online, the save button in the top right corner will change to the icon of a journal article:

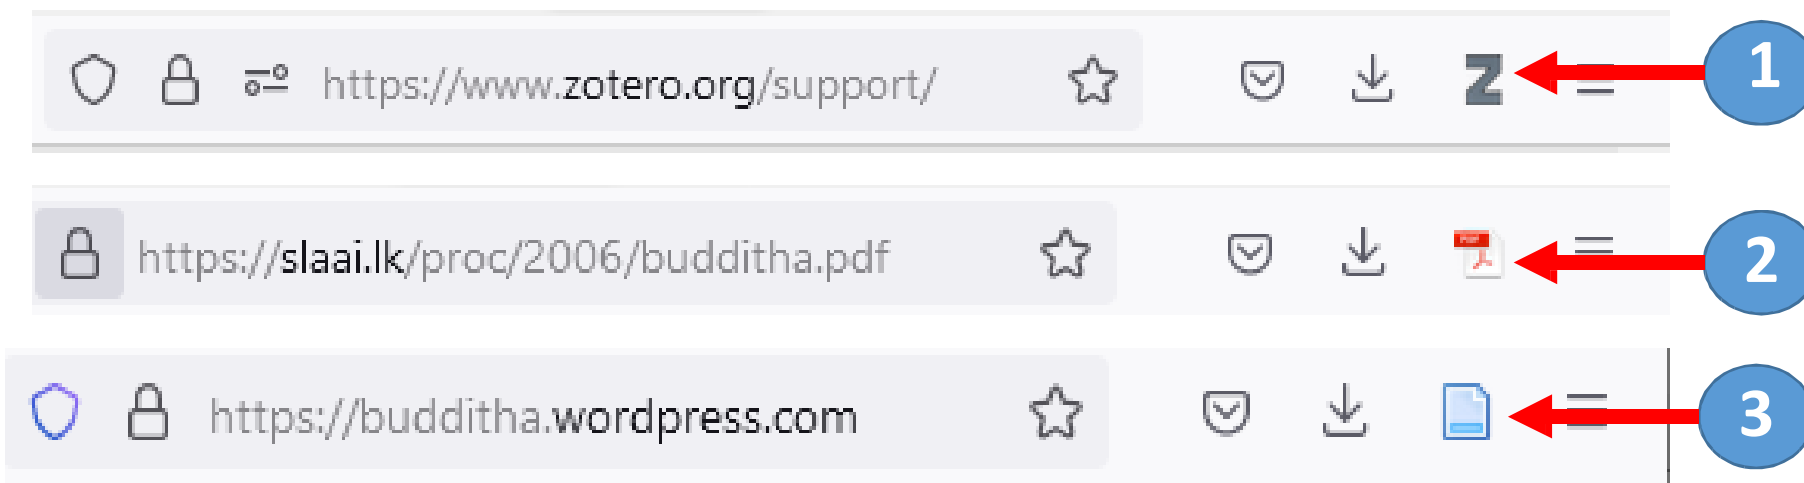

- Click on this icon to create an item in Zotero with the information it has identified.
- If the PDF has open-access, Zotero will also save the PDF file.
- A window will pop-up where you can designate the location in Zotero that you would like to save:

Steps to Adding Items Into Your Library

1. Create new collection
2. Adding Items Into Your Library
  1. Using web browser
  2. Manual

Adding items using Browser

- Using the Zotero Connector's save button is a convenient way to add items to your Zotero library.
- The Zotero Connector will automatically find bibliographic information on webpages you visit, and allow you to add it to Zotero with a single click.

Google Scholar Collection

The image shows a browser window with the address bar displaying <https://scholar.google.com/scholar?scilib>. Below the browser window, a dialog box titled "Extension: (Zotero Connector) - Zotero Item Selector — Mozilla Firefox" is open. The dialog box contains the text "Select which items you'd like to add to your library:" followed by a list of items with checkboxes. The following items are checked:

- A morphological analyzer to enable english to sinhala machine translation
- A parser for sinhala language-first step towards english to sinhala machine translation
- MaSMT: A Multi-agent System Development Framework for English-Sinhala Machine Translation

The following items are not checked:

- Octopus: A Multi Agent Chatbot
- Transliteration system for English to Sinhala machine translation
- Developing lexicon databases for english to sinhala machine translation
- A COMPUTATIONAL GRAMMAR OF SINHALA FOR ENGLISH-SINHALA MACHINE TRANSLATION
- First Sinhala chatbot in action
- A Multi-agent Solution For Managing Complexity In English To Sinhala Machine Translation
- AgriCom: A communication platform for agriculture sector
- Multi-agent system technology for morphological analysis

At the bottom of the dialog box, there are four buttons: "Select All", "Deselect All", "Cancel", and "OK".

Add New Item

The image illustrates the steps to add a new item in Zotero:

1. Click the 'Add New Item' icon (a green plus sign) in the toolbar.
2. Select 'Conference Paper' from the dropdown menu.
3. The 'Add New Item' dialog box opens, showing the 'Item Type' set to 'Conference Paper'.

The dialog box shows the following fields:

Field	Value
Item Type	Conference Paper
Title
Author	(last), (first)
Abstract
Date
Proceedings Title
Conference Name
Place
Publisher
Volume

The "Author" field lists "Hettige, B" and "Karunananda, Asoka S". The "Abstract" text reads: "Chatbots are becoming popular as a means for interactive communication between human and machines. Due to their interactivity, chatbots are much better than standard machine translation systems, which may provide unrealistic solutions when the system cannot perform without user intervention. This paper reports on the design and implementation of the Sinhala Chatbot System that can communicate between computer and user, through Sinhala language. This is the first ever Sinhala Chatbot. The current chatbot has been designed to work on Linux and Windows Operating systems. As such the current chatbot can be queried on operating system related concepts such as date, time, and also identify individuals and greet accordingly. This system has been developed as an application of a Sinhala parser that comes under a major component of our project in English to..."

Creating Bibliographies

Quick Copy

If you just want to quickly add references to a paper, email, or blog post, Zotero's Quick Copy is the easiest way to go. Simply select items in the center column and drag them into any text field. Zotero will automatically create a formatted bibliography for you.

To copy citations instead of references, hold down Shift at the start of the drag.

Word Processor Plugins

- Click Tools – add-ons (Check Word processor Add-ons is Enable)

Word Processor Plugins

- In the Microsoft Word Select Zotero Tab (1) Then click Document preferences (2) to set reference style
- Then add citations (3) Finally click Add Bibliography (4)

Document preferences

- Select suitable Citation Style (1)
- If your style is not available in the list click Manage style (2) and import required style's
- Click OK (3)

Add In-text Citation

In the word document

- Go to location you need to add in-text citation Then click Add/Edit Citation
- In the red text fields type part of the paper title and select a document
- Press Enter
